SMOKE CHAMBER

ADDENDUM TO

AGREEMENT dated April 3, 1970 between LYMAN L. BLACKWELL
and STATITROL CORPORATION;

WITNESSETH THAT

YJB WHEREAS BLACKWELL has helped design and assemble STATITROL's ~~new Model 700~~ battery and line powered residential and commercial fire detectors which include potentially patentable features including a battery failure circuit and ALSO REFERRED TO AS DUE-LENTRIC CHAMBER signal, and/or a concentric ion chamber configuration and,

WHEREAS, BLACKWELL desires to assign to STATITROL, and STATITROL desires to accept from BLACKWELL, all his rights in said ~~Model 700~~ residential and commercial fire detectors, including the battery failure circuit and/or concentric ion chamber thereof, for application in all available and suitable products in addition to said residential and commercial detectors, upon the same royalty and payment terms of said Agreement of April 3, 1970.

NOW, THEREFORE, as supplement and addendum to said Agreement
of April 3, 1970, the parties are agreed as follows:

1. All BLACKWELL's right, title and interest in and to the above described battery failure circuit and signal and concentric ion chamber, in any STATITROL application thereof, shall be included in the term invention, which BLACKWELL hereby assigns to STATITROL, all as set forth in paragraphs 1 and 2 of said Agreement of April 3, 1970.
2. The parties agree to apply for patents thereon as provided in paragraphs 3 and 4 of said Agreement of April 3, 1970.
3. STATITROL agrees to pay BLACKWELL royalties as follows:
Three (3%) percent of manufacturer's selling price of each detector sold which employs the invention, except for residential application, and one (1%) percent of manufacturer's selling price on each detector sold for residential application employing the invention described in this Addendum.

4. All royalties paid hereunder shall apply toward minimums specified in paragraph 6 of said Agreement of April 3, 1970.

5. Provisions of paragraphs 7-18, inclusive, of said Agreement of April 3, 1970 shall apply to the invention herein described.

Dated at Leewood Colorado, this 10th day of July, 1974.
