Colorado Business Week 1988 touched the lives of many people throughout Colorado, in many different ways. Business Viewpoint reports on some of the perspectives that Colorado Business Week evokes.

Duane Pearsall, CACI Chairman of the Board:

"Colorado Business Week 1988, by all reports, was again a smashing success. Every person who participated in or witnessed the 1988 program, that I have met, has praised the program in glowing terms. "Thanks go to the many outstanding Loaned Executives, who spent a full week as company advisors; the business sponsors; the staff who planned every detail for months in advance; and particularly to those 337 outstanding students from all over our state."

Business Leader of the Year

N. Berne Hart, Chairman and CEO, United Banks of Colorado, Inc., and CACI's Colorado Business Leader of the Year 1988, led the panel discussion of profit at the Greeley session, in which the six executives from the winning businesses of the year took part.

Hart and his colleagues traveled by helicopter from the Business Awards Luncheon to Greeley on August 1. Hart says, "It was gratifying and fun to be met (by students and adults) on the campus field."

The panel discussion, centering around the topic "profit" was the "highlight," said Hart enthusiastically. All of the 200+ students seemed to want to take part in the "pros and cons, in's and out's" of the topic. More than that, Hart recalled, the students were interested and attentive to the various speakers — their experiences and business histories. "There were stimulating, good questions from the students," Hart says. The business leaders also obtained a "good appreciation of the CA's."

Hart served as CACI's Chairman of the Board in 1985-86, and is very familiar with the Colorado Business Week program. However, his role as panel discussion leader, and the opportunity it afforded to observe the program more closely, was an aspect of the program that Hart obviously relished.
