Mark Eldredge Papers

MS 23

Personal Papers

Mark Eldredge's papers cover his career from 1907 to the 1950s. They also include letters and articles from his time in California, after his retirement. They consist of biographical materials (resumes, autobiography, news clippings of his marriage and career and a cassette tape recording of Eldredge recounting his life story), articles and addresses by Eldredge, official papers of his Army career, and correspondence. There are a few photographs, one of Eldredge, one from his time in India, and three probably of Memphis.

There is considerable material from Eldredge's time in Memphis, both news clippings and correspondence related to his work there and news articles about his and his wife's activities. There are also many articles and papers by Eldredge, and notes from lectures he gave.

Approximately the first two-thirds of the materials are arranged in a loose chronological manner, in order to keep papers from the different time periods in Eldredge's life together as much as possible. The later folders contain correspondence covering a large time period, much of it more personal than directly related to his jobs, and articles and papers by and about him, and lectures he gave.
