Dear Sirs:-

We have from you this morning an envelope with your mark and nothing in it; but as we received yesterday in an envelope with no mark a notice of injury to Rudolph Payette on Aug. 27th, not bearing the name of any company, which we conjectured ^{to} come from you we suppose that you may have intended to write us something further about this accident; if so please let us hear at once. The accident looks like a trifling one involving no liability or expense.

Yours truly,

GJG
